

Contents

Chapter 1

The Lord of the Rings and the Quest for a Meaningful Context	13
---	----

Chapter 2

The Western Narrative Tradition: A Matter of Constant Fusion	19
2.1 Main characteristics of epic poetry
2.1.1. The evolution of epic literature: from Homer to Beowulf	25
Homer 25 / The Argonautica of Appolonius Rhodius 29 / The Aeneid 35 / Beowulf 39
2.2. Romance	42
2.2.1. Romance from the Middle Ages to the 19th century	43
Medieval romance 43 / Romance and Epic blended: chanson de geste – narratives and Renaissance epics 48 / Epic romance and the novel 54
2.3. The modern novel	56
The gothic novel and supernatural fiction 57 / The romantic imagination and the novel: the Legend in broad daylight 60 / New worlds, old traditions: the fantasy novels of MacDonald and Morris 62
2.4. Myth and the Western narrative traditions	67

Chapter 3

The Lord of the Rings and Ironic Myth	73
3.1. The Great War	75
The War Poets 76 / High Modernism: T.S. Eliot, Pound and Joyce 79
3.2. Ironic myth	82
The cases of In Parenthesis and Four Quartets 87
3.3. Tolkien, Modernity and Ironic Myth	93
The Lord of the Rings and the Great War 93 / The Lord of the Rings and Modernism 99 / The Secondary World in context 102 / A different dialogue 106

Chapter 4

The Exploration of the Limits of the Inter-traditional Dialogue in The Lord of the Rings	113
4.1. Leaving the Shire	119
The elves in the Shire	132
4.2. The Tom Bombadil-digression: from myth-making to map-making	137
Dreams, mists, hedges, tunnels and gates: the borders of romance 140 / Trees and sleep: romance space consolidated 141 / Tom Bombadil and Goldberry: nature and myth 144 / More dreams, fog, and gates: romance and myth in the Barrow-downs 147 / The road: novel on the way back to Bree and Middle-earth 148
4.3. Aragorn's heroic evolution	151
Aragorn in Bree: Epic and the Adventure Novel 152 / Rivendell: Romance and Epic 158 / Lórien: Romance 162 / From Amon Hen to Fangorn: Novel, Epic, and Romance 163 / Meduseld and Helm's Deep: Epic 167 / Isengard: Novel 170 / Minas Tirith: Epic and Romance 171 / Victory: Romance 173
4.4. Rivendell: narrative mélange	174
A border rehabilitated 174 / Defining the heroes 178
4.5. The Mines of Moria: generating applicability	183
The Mines of Moria and the twentieth century 184 / The intrusion of the novel 185 / Novel and myth in dialogue 186 / The Bridge of Khazad-dûm: the meeting between Christian and pagan traditions 189
4.6. Gandalf: messenger of the Valar	190
Gandalf in Fangorn: romance wizard 191 / Rohan and Gondor: Christian virtues, pagan courage 193
4.7. Frodo and Sam: journey to the end of the Third Age	199
The adventure novel 200 / The dystopic romance of the Great War 202 / The Black Gate: Epic rejected 204 / Fusion: adventure novel and dystopic romance of the Great War 205 / Pseudomedieval ro- mance 207 / The gothic novel 210 / Towards the mythic end of the Third Age 214
4.8. Back to the Shire: dismantling the intertraditional dialogue	218

Contents

Chapter 5

The Meta-Narrative Myth of Hope for the Twentieth Century 221

Bibliography

Primary Sources 227

Secondary Sources 229

Literary genres, concrete works and literary theory 229 / Poetry of the Great War, Modernism and the Twentieth Century 233 /
Monographs and studies on Tolkien and his works 236 /
Dictionaries 243

Index 245